Congress sends pay bill to Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, racing against the calendar, have sent President Ford a measure that will enable some 250,000 jobless Americans in hard-core unemployment areas to continue to receive up to 65 weeks of compensation payments.

With no arguments raised in objection, the House passed the measure by voice vote Thursday and sent it to the Senate, which swiftly passed it by an 83 to 3 margin.

If signed into law by Ford by midnight Monday, the end of the current fiscal year, the legislation will continue the right of persons in high-unemployment areas to draw up to 65 weeks of jobless pay

These workers have benefited from a special, $200-million feature of the 1975 Tax Reduction Act that expires at the end of the fiscal year. Without the extension until March 1977 contained in the just-passed bill, the maximum benefit period would revert to 52 weeks, thereby cutting off benefits to some 250,000 persons, congressional backers said.

Passage of the bill came as the government reported that the nation's welfare rolls rose by 0.8 per cent to 11,346,994 in March, mainly because of high unemployment.

Congress has less success, however, in agreeing on a compromise housing bill.

The roadblock was House passage of two Ford administration-backed amendments that would eliminate a maximum 1 per cent fee on mortgage funds provided to moderate-income home buyers by the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and a similar fee made available to sellers by lenders.

The administration contended that a limitation of the fee percentage would deprive GNMA of needed revenue and also would discourage lenders.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the bill's Senate floor manager, said he would refuse to accept the amendments, and further action was postponed until Congress returns from a 10-day recess on July 7

The major purpose of the bill is to provide GNMA with an additional $10 billion in home mortgage purchasing authority.

Meanwhile Thursday, the Commerce Department reported that the nation's foreign trade surplus reached a nearrecord level in May, aided by a nearly 21 per cent drop in the volume of imported oil

The department said May's trade surplus of $1.05 billion compared with a $556.8 million surplus in April and the record $1.38 billion surplus posted in March.

The May figure brought the surplus to $3.7 billion thus far in 1975, compared with a $2.3 billion deficit for all of 1974.

Federal agents found shot on reservation

Jack R. Coler

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — "It looked like an execution. They were riddled with bullets," South Dakota Atty. Gen. William Janklow said today after two FBI agents were shot to death on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

The two agents were dragged out of their cars and killed Thursday when they tried to serve warrants on people who were holed up in a house, authorities

An Indian in the house was reported killed in an exchange of gunfire, but it was not known whether he died during the initial shooting or later when additional FBI and Bureau of Indian Affairs agents reached the scene.

Federal agents pursued occupants of the house through the reservation's hills Thursday night, but at 1:30 a.m. the FBI agent in charge said the gunfire had stopped, "as far as I know."

No gunfire was reported this morning. FBI agents continued to search the wooded area near the house and to comb the building itself for clues. Other agents interviewed reservation residents in an effort to determine how many people were in the house, and who they were.

FBI Special Agent Joseph Trimbach said his men were continuing patrols of reservation roads but no arrests had been made.

In Alameda, Calif., meanwhile, an explosion shattered windows in the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs offices early today shortly after an anonymous caller told the San Francisco Chronicle that a terrorist group would bomb the facility.

Ronald A. Williams

A Chronicle telephone operator said a woman caller told her the offices would be bombed by the New World Liberation Front, an underground group that has claimed responsibility for several Northern California bombings. She said the caller gave no reason or other details.

A bomb also broke windows early today at the visitors center of the Mt. Rushmore National Memorial, in South Dakota about 75 miles from the Pine Ridge Reservation. A spokesman said there were no injuries. He would not speculate on whether the blast was related to the reservation incidents.

The house where agents Jack R. Coler and Ronald A. Williams were killed is about five miles southeast of the reservation community of Oglala and not far from Wounded Knee, where two Indians were killed when militant Indians occupied the village for 71 days in 1973.

An FBI spokesman in Washington said the slain agents had gone to the reservation with warrants charging five or six individuals with unlawful possession of firearms.

He said the warrants were issued Thursday after a white man and his son told authorities that they were held for several hours on Wednesday by a group of Indians and then were released un-

The spokesman said that the two agents got out of their car in a wooded area and immediately came under fire from trenches that had been dug a short distance away.

Board approves new salary plan

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Board of Education Thursday night approved a compromise salary schedule for teachers, increasing base salaries by 5 per cent

The salary schedule adopted by the board, in a 5-1 vote, is a compromise of proposals submitted by the Professional Concern and Development (PCD) committee of the Sedalia Community Educators Association (SCEA) and school district administrators.

The SCEA proposal called for a 5 per cent increase in base salary, plus one additional step on the scale for years of experience in each of five categories. This proposal put the base salary at $7,796, or $371 over last year's figure.

The administration's proposal included an increase of $340 over last year's base salary, putting the starting salary at $7,765. This proposal did not include an additional step on the scale for experience in the five categories.

The five categories include teachers who have earned the following: B.A. (120 credit hours); 135 credit hours; 150 credit hours; M.A.; M.A. plus 30 graduate hours.

Dr. C. W. Monsees, who cast the only dissenting vote on the board's plan, favored accepting the SCEA proposal in is entirety. The board, however, approved a compromise that excluded extra steps on the longevity scale. The compromise did, however, set the base salary at the figure requested by SCEA.

Dr. Allan Henningsen, superintendent of schools, said the board initiated one increase in the longevity scale last year. He said, "The administration does not believe it should continue to add verticle steps to the scale ... otherwise it could go on indefinitely."

Monsees, who noted that "neither side is asking the impossible," made the first motion to accept the teacher's original plan without change. That motion died for lack of a second.

Board member Dr. C. A. Kirkpatrick then moved that the board accept the teacher's proposal, deleting the additional steps for years of experience. That motion was passed 5-1. Monsees then entertained a third motion which would provide additional steps for years of experience in the two highest categories (M.A. and M.A. plus 30 graduate hours.) That motion also died for lack of a second.

According to Henningsen, the board essentially approved $10,562 more for

Detour solution found

By ED VAUGHAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

WARSAW — A partial solution to a two-fold problem plaguing businesses along Highway 7 on the west side of the Osage River and other Warsaw area residents was reached Thursday morning by the Benton County Court.

The court entered into an agreement with the Highway Department to have the department change present detour signs along Highway 7 to inform motorists that they can get to Highway 65 via Lake Road 7-67 rather than take Route C to Lincoln. In return, the court agreed to continue maintaining the three-mile, gravel road.

Two representatives from the State Highway Department's District 4 office in Kansas City — Richard Jones, operations engineer, and James Garrison, maintenance and traffic engineer — met with the court, Warsaw Mayor Gordon Drake, a representative of Atkinson Construction Co., main contractor on the new Harry S. Truman Dam site, and other Warsaw representatives. Their goal was to resolve the problems encountered by the detour.

The detour was necessitated when the old swinging bridge over the river on the west edge of Warsaw collapsed June 9 under the weight of a tractor-trailer rig that plunged into the river and killed the driver. This, however, only magnified an existing, intermittent problem.

Jones said he understood a petition containing some 1,600 signatures from area residents and workers had been presented to the department's chief engineer, Bob Hinter, in Jefferson City by Sen. William Cason, D-Clinton.

The petition, sponsored by Forest Hughes, owner of Hughes' Superette on Highway 7 between Coal and Warsaw, requested the state accept the lake road "as part of the state-maintained road system..." Sen. Cason assisted Hughes in preparing the petition.

Hughes said he started circulating the petition the day the bridge collapsed because of the problems he knew the detour signs would create for his and other businesses in the area. The business owners said their sales had fallen from 25 to 50 per cent since the detour signs went up.

Following the bridge collapse, the State Highway Department re-routed traffic along Benton County Route C, from Coal, about 18-miles northwest of Warsaw, to Lincoln. Route C is the nearest state-maintained road connecting Highways 7 and 65.

This forces westbound drivers on Highway 7 to travel some 11 additional miles to reach the other side of the river at Warsaw. The same re-routing was formerly used by the State Highway Department when Highway 7 was closed on the west side of the bridge by high water, which reportedly occurred every few weeks in the spring and fall.

However, most area drivers knew they could avoid the long detour by taking the lake road, which connects Highway 7 on the west side of the river with Highway 83, which in turn intersects with Highway 65 south of Warsaw.

Combined with all of the heavy equipment and construction traffic that uses the road for work on the dam project, the increased traffic has left the partial one-lane route in hazardous condition in some spots.

Show leaves question to viewers

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What is this mystery? Who is this un-seen God that lances the inner conscience? That speaks from a fire that burns but does not consume? "What is his name?" asked the ancient Moses, who early grappled with the ques-

"I am who I am," came the strangely nebalous answer.

The question still persists among people today, and it is raised anew in an unusual television serial, "Moses — The Lawgiver," started last weekend and continuing for a total of six weeks each Saturday night on the CBS network.

It perpetuates the old question, leaving the answer up to the viewers' interpretation.

For example, various extraordinary events, such as the Israelites' crossing of the Red Sea in their flight for freedom from Egypt, can be seen either as miraculous interventions of God or as unusual natural phenomena-as sudden winds

It is presented so as to have "a rational explanation for nonbelievers and to be the result of supernatural intervention for the believers," says Italian director Gianfranco De Bosio.

In the same way, in portraying Biblical accounts of God speaking to Moses, the Bible is followed, but there is room also for a psychological inter-pretation," De Bosio says.

'The words may be a way chosen by God to manifest himself, as much as they are a manifestation of Moses' subconscious.

At a reception after a preview of a portion of the serial, he recalled that he once taught a Protestant Sunday school class, adding, "But I'm not an orthodox religious person. I don't believe in God necessarily, but I do have a human set of values and ideals." As to where they originated, it was the experience of Moses, Israelites and ensuing prophets and Jesus that first brought out the central values of human civilization, ascribing them to a creative source of life, to God.

Actor Lancaster said the television serial, in the making for two years, "is the best thing I've done in any religious film. It's the loveliest, most honest and most exciting.

We followed the Bible very closely," he said. "We didn't try to do any gimmicks." As for his portrayal of Moses.

Lancaster said he saw the founding Israelite leader as "a simple, ordinary, insecure, rather frightened person, groping with universal problems of tyranny and freedom.

"Instead of offering some grandiose image of him in the Cecil B. De Mille style, Moses is tormented by dissatisfactions and questions.

That characteristic matches the realism of Biblical descriptions in which Moses has his moments of doubts and uncertainties, as well as his tough convictions against heavy odds.

British novelist Anthony Burgess, who worked on the script, says Moses is "a modern character...a prototype of mankind. His journey is symbolic. It is a search for God through hardships, doubts and uncertainties. It is the history of mankind itself.

Ordained

The Rev. Neil Wolfe was ordained as pastor of the Long Branch Baptist Church, Odessa, on June 22. Mr. Wolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolfe, 1403 East Ninth, was licensed into the ministry on Aug. 11, 1974, at the East Sedalia Baptist Church. He is married to the former Joyce Carpenter, Appleton City, and is a student at Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg.

State to take responsibility for colleges

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) - Starting in July 1977, the state will shoulder total financing of Missouri Western and Missouri Southern colleges with the formal signing by Gov. Christopher S. Bond of a bill passed by the 1975 legislature.

The governor, using more than two dozen pens which he distributed as souvenirs, signed half of his signature Thursday on the Missouri Western campus at St. Joseph and completed it on the Missouri Southern campus in Joplin.

Bond said the two colleges now become "an integral part of higher education in Missouri," providing a tremendous opportunity for the communities, the students and the

Both schools started as junior colleges, only partly financed by state funds. Under the 1977 arrangement, the state will provide an additional $650,000 for Missouri Western, and $550,000 for Missouri Southern, the first year of new operation.

By Phil Minton

Countless thousands of men and women are unable to sleep. Advertisers capitalize on this unfortunate situation by promoting their products as an aid to sleep and rest. Some are, no doubt, effective and the patient is sometimes able to achieve the much needed sleep, but yet there is a blessed promise to every true believer.

"I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep; for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety" (Psalm 4:8). In this verse God has promised peace, sleep, and safety. We receive peace with God when we accept leave. Jesus Christ as personal Saviour. This peace occurs only once. But God has also promised peace on a daily bais as we learn to trust in Him by prayer and supplication

If we are truly able to thank Him in everything, then anxiety will flee and sleep will come. Fear will be overcome and we shall dwell in the knowledge of His safety. Why not turn to Christ right now? "That if thou shalt confess with they mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Romans 10:9).

Kennedy leaves fficiating. Military rites and burial will be in the no doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy appears to have dampened the lingering hopes among some of his supporters that he would ultimately be willing to accept the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy did so by spelling out more precisely than ever before his refusal to accept a 1976 presidential draft, even if it were the only way to prevent the Democrats from nominating Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

His statement, in response to a question during a nationally televised interview Wednesday night with CBS correspondent Walter Cronkite, comes after repeated speculation whether there were circumstances under which he might get back into the race.

Such speculation has continued despite Kennedy's statement last Sept. 23 that his decision against a 1976 race is "firm, final and unconditional" and that "there is absolutely no circumstance or event that will alter the decision. I will not accept the nomination. I will not accept a

And that speculation has been renewed in recent weeks because of heightened concern among many Democratic leaders that none of the party's present or prospective candidates is strong enough to beat the Alabama governor in many of the 30 presidential primaries now scheduled next year.

Cronkite's question about a Kennedy candidacy included a scenario in which no candidate had a clear lead, Wallace held one-third of the delegates and some of the other candidates were "willing to make arrangements with Gov. Wallace and that the only way that this move could be stopped would be if you stepped forward as a candidate or accepted a

"Wouldn't you have a responsibility to accept the draft if it occurred under those circumstances?" Cronkite asked.

Kennedy replied, "The answer would be 'No,' I don't believe so." He added that "I don't believe that that will be the set of circumstances in 1976.

The personnel covered under the salary scale include supervisors, teachers and librarians, Henningsen said.

In discussing the pay scale, board members blamed the state legislature for defeating House Bill 350 which could have provided more state funds for the district by revising the formula for the minimum guarantee in school aid funds Board President Glenn "Mack" Kell Jr., lowest paid of all professions because they have not tried to go the union route, except for a few in larger cities."

He quoted Henningsen as previously saying, "In education there is very little room for promotion, unless you get into administration.'

Johnston then asked the board: "How are we going to increase the income except by moving up or across? We are not asking for all that much more than what the administration is proposing.

He said the addition of another step in the years of experience scale "can make the difference between a teacher staying in the Sedalia school system or moving to another district. On Tuesday, SCEA members voted 125-6 in favor of the original proposal submitted Thursday to the board. SCEA members also voted 129-2 in favor of changing the highest category on the salary scale from specialist degree to M.A. plus 30 graduate hours. representatives will report the board's decision to SCEA members. He said members will have to accept or reject the schedule on an individual basis. He said members could ask for further negotiations if they are displeased. However, he added that the board is not required to hold further negotiations.

In other business, the board approved its 1975-76 salary schedule for non-certified personnel. The board increased the pay scale to 7.7 per cent overall. This puts total expenditures for non-certified personnel at $582,569 for 1975-76.

However, Henningsen said the number of non-certified personnel was reduced by eliminating some positions and reducing some fulltime positions to part-time.

Based on the 1974-75 salary, these cuts amount to $9,675. Total expenditures, before the 7.7 per cent overall increase, would have been $540,918 for non-certified personnel. Total expenditures for last year in this area were $548,099

The pay scale accepted by the board for supervisors, classroom teachers and librarians represents an overall increase of 6.7 per cent. This puts the total at $167,645 over last year's scale.

"Now is the time to stay unified," said Eunice West of New York at a feminist caucus Thursday night. "Now that things are rolling and our document for action is being presented to the U.N. conference, we should stay together."

Ms. West said she and some other women had grievances about Ms. Friedan's frequent dominance of meetings of the Tribune, the sessions for nongovernmental persons being held parallel to the meetings for the official delegations to the United Nations women's conference. But "we should go back home and do our criticizing there,"

"We consider Betty Friedan's value to be as a writer and as a vanguard feminist, but we don't feel she is representative of us," Ms. Echazarreta told the caucus of about 75 women, most of them from the United States.

Ms. Friedan has had a hand in most of the Tribune sessions and other unofficial forums and caucuses. She has presided at meetings, held numerous news briefings and has been particularly successful at drawing attention to complaints that the more than 5,000 nongovernment participants lacked adequate telephones, duplicating equipment and other facilities, and that conference schedules were so tight they left no time for informal meetings.

She was conspicuously quiet at the session Thursday night, however.

Electric wiring blamed for fire

Faulty wiring was listed as the cause of a fire which did an estimated $900 damage to a house occupied by Jerry L. Goodson at 314 North Engineer Thursday evening.

Firemen were called to the scene at 5:59 p.m. Thursday and found the walls in a front room on fire. The fire was confined to Fire officials reported that the wiring in Clyde L. Cooper, 400 North Prospect, owner of the frame house, was told that Missouri Public Service Co. would be advised by the fire department that the electricity should not be turned on in the house until the wiring is approved by the city building inspector.

Damage to the building was estimated at $700, with $200 damage to the contents.

Increase in benefit checks is announced

Beginning with their July 1 checks, local persons receiving railroad retirement benefit (RRB) payments will receive an 8 per cent increase in either their monthly RRB checks or Social Security payments, whichever is larger. This increase is the result of a cost-of-living adjustment granted all social security beneficiaries. This hike will automatically reflect in the checks of persons who receive only RRB payments. For persons receiving both Social Security and railroad retirement benefits, the 8 per cent increase is added to the highest of the two monthly payments. Persons filing for railroad retirement benefits after Jan. 1 receive RRB funds and Social Security payments, if any, together in one monthly check. Persons receiving such payments before Jan. 1 continue to receive the two checks separately "In no case will persons receive 8 per cent increases on both checks," explained Dick Jones, district manager of the Railroad Retirement Board office in the Federal Building here. "They will receive the increase only for the larger payment." It was also announced that survivors of dead railroad workers, who do not receive

Social Security payments, will also get an 8 per cent increase in RRB payments. This hike is in addition to a raise given earlier. Survivors receiving both RRB and Social Security checks will also receive only an 8 per cent increase on the larger of the two monthly payments. Jones also announced that Medicare premiums, which have customarily increased on July 1 in past years, will not increase this July 1. The current premium is $6.70 per month. The program is part of the tax rebate program authorized earlier in the year by Congress, Jones said.

Circuit Judge Frank Meyer, in accepting Pierce's guilty plea to the manslaughter charge, deferred sentencing to 1:30 p.m. July 14, pending the completion of a presentence investigation by the Department of Probation and Parole. Fleming recommended that Pierce be sentenced to 10 years in prison and opposed probation.

(Continued from Page 1) The protests came from residents and business owners along Highway 7 between Coal and Warsaw. Businesses in that area depend on the highway traffic for their livelihood, mostly derived during the summer months from lake area traffic. Area residents complained about the road's rough surface, pitted by deep holes, and the wear and tear on their autos.

Jones and Garrison, when asked if the state would take over the road and maintain it, said the decision had already been reached by the State Highway Commission, which regulates the department's activities, not to take the road into the state system. They were not informed of the exact reasons behind that decision, they said

They also related that state law forbids the State Highway Department from spending "even one dime" on the lake road because it is not included in the state road system. Agreements allowing such roads to be taken over by the state are made, Jones said, but the paper work involved would hardly be completed before repairs on the old swinging bridge can be Jones said the only alternative open to county officials, as far as the state is concerned, was to agree to maintain the road

while the state placed different signs at Coal, indicating traffic could reach Highway 65 via the three-mile lake road. Under such an agreement the state would then be willing to erect such signs at Coal, Highway 7's intersection with Lake Road 7-67, and at the intersection of Highways 13 and 7 in Clinton, where a present sign warns motorists of the detour on

Following the two-hour session, the court agreed that this was the best possible solution under the circumstances and that this would at least aid the businesses affected by the present detour.

Jones and Garrison said they would relay the court's decision to the Highway Department's Jefferson City sign shop and get new signs installed "by Wednesday or Thursday at the latest" in order to allow the affected businesses to at least benefit from the July 4 holiday traffic. Southern District Judge Leo Porter, in whose district the lake road falls, said that county road crews had been working on that three-mile stretch of road at least one of every three or four working days in order to maintain the road in its present condition. Estimates on traffic along the lake road were in excess of 400 vehicles per day. Judge Porter said he counted 73 vehicles traveling both ways on the road during a one-minute time span

Several places need widening, he said, and at least three culverts along the road need to be replaced. Until the swinging bridge can be repaired at an estimated cost of $50,000 to $60,000, which will take several weeks yet, Jones indicated area residents will be forced to use the lake road or drive the extra distance involved in the longer detour.

I refuse to start my letter by addressing you as "Dear Ann Landers." You are NOT dear to me. In fact, I think you must be either a nut or a Communist.

The letter you printed recently about the wedding night of two people who had had no previous sex experience was downright pornographic.

Don't you realize that young children read your column, and teenagers, also? To think you would print a letter by a lunactic who thought inexperience and clumsiness on a wedding night was a big laugh is beyond belief. Sex belongs in the bedroom, behind locked doors, not in a family

Mideast: the fuses to the powderkeg

KUWAIT - When the shah of Iran was in Washington recently, protesting Iranian students smeared this sign on the sides of buildings: "Iran - The Next Vietnam?"

East finds just about everybody preparing for some calamity

Consider Kuwait. This tiny country has less than a million people, with half of them not citizens. So Kuwait cannot possibly have a military force of much size. Yet there are Kuwaitis crying constantly for the purchase of more arms.

One Kuwaiti laughed at his countrymen's fears and said: "I reckon that if the Persians tried to take Kuwait, the Russians wouldn't let them. If the Russians tried to take us, the Americans would never stand for it. If the Americans tried to take us. both the Russians and Persians would have

Some pessimists in this area say "the blowup" will come when Iran tries to establish her domination of the entire gulf area. Arabs who already are resentful of the presence of Iranian forces in Oman (to fight the Communist-backed Dhofari rebels) express an uneasiness that the billions of dollars worth of arms Iran is purchasing yearly may someday be used to dominate Arabs.

"I trust the shah and Iran," Kuwaiti foreign minister Saba al-Ahmad told me.

"I trust the shah, but I worry about what the Iranians will do with those arms once the shah is gone," said another Kuwaiti "Either the shah's wife or his son will be in control, and neither will be as strong as the shah. The military will take over, or Iran could turn to democracy. In either case, it could mean trouble for Iran's

The evidence now, however, is that the shah is buying arms because he believes some neighbors want to make trouble for

The shah conceded that he can never buy enough arms to enable Iran to defend herself against the Soviet Union. Iran relies on the United States for support in that event. He says that Iran and the gulf area are so vital to Western Europe, Japan and the United States that the United States would have to go to war to prevent Russia from taking them.

"Unless you have lost all your guts and are prepared to die, you would have to fight," the shah said.

As the thoughtful diplomat, the shah always talks about Iran's good relations with "the government of the Soviet Union" before he tells you that Iran is threatened by "international communism" which he says is still bent on ruling the world.

Strip the diplomacy aside and you see that the shah fears the Russians really would like to attack his government through proxies. He keeps a wary eye on Afghanistan where the Soviets were active in a coup. The shah keeps an even warier eye on Baluchistan, the area straddling the Iranian-Pakistani border.

In 1973 Pakistani police seized some 300 machine guns and 60,000 rounds of ammunition which had been smuggled into the Iraqi embassy as diplomatic baggage. The arms were intended for Baluchis who are attempting to "secede" from Pakistan.

The shah knows that success in Pakistan would fire up a separatist movement by Baluchis in Iran. That is why he has warned India and the world that Iran will oppose with arms if necessary any further

'dismemberment" of Pakistan. The shah won't say it, but Iranians know that the Russians are providing the arms and the Iraqis have served as the "proxy" in trying to stir up trouble in Baluchistan

Recent agreements between Iran and Iraq seem to have quieted one of the more dangerous causes of tension in the Middle East. But the whole area still remains a powderkeg with many fuses. It is difficult to determine whether the massive inflow of arms will serve as a deterrent to warfare, or will simply encourage someone to light one of those fuses.

A visit with Tom Sawyer

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Ashamed of myself for being a native Missourian and having never made a pilgrimage to Hannibal, I packed up the family last weekend and set out.

We followed Highway 79 that weaves its way northward from St. Louis, and before long were able to catch glimpses of the wide Mississippi. The great river is the spring that inspired and became the abiding symbol of one of America's greatest writers-Mark Twain.

The first impression of today's Hannibal is not unlike Twain's own description in "Life on the Mississippi":

"... I can picture that old time to myself now, just as it was then: the white town drowsing in the sunshine of a summer's morning, the streets empty, or pretty nearly so; one or two clerks sitting in front of the Water Street stores, with their splint bottom chairs tilted back against the walls, hats slouched over their faces, asleep ... the great Mississippi, the majestic, the magnificent Mississippi, rolling its milewide tide along, shining in the sun . . .

Hannibal was called "St. Petersburg" in "Tom Sawyer," which Twain was writing exactly 100 years ago, publishing it in 1876. Samuel Clemens lived in Hannibal from the age of 4 until he was 18. It was a fairly brief span, but time enough to supply him all the raw material he needed to write his most memorable books.

I asked the proprietor of the Becky Thatcher Book Store which Twain title sold the best. The answer, not unexpected, was "Tom Sawyer." It may be Twain's most famous book, but it is not his best. That distinction belongs to "Huckleberry Finn," which was written a few years later and remains one of the monuments of American literature.

Mark Twain's boyhood home, built in 1840, still stands on Hill Street. It is also known as the Tom Sawyer House, since the boyhoods of the author and his character seemed to get so mixed up. In front of it stands a latter-day version of the famous whitewashed fence Returning to his Hannibal home from time to time. Twain used to remark how small it kept getting. He predicted that it would assume the dimensions of a doll house before long

Next door is the Mark Twain Museum. which contains much material related to the author's life. Unfortunately, there is little original in the way of manuscripts, and only a few letters. But the museum does boast a battered cherry desk on which Twain wrote "Tom Sawyer." Norman Rockwell's brilliant original illustrations for that book and "Huck Finn" also are on

About a quarter of a million visitors a year sign the museum's register. Curiously, a large percentage of these are foreigners, and curiouser still, many Russians. Twain is very big in the Soviet Union, I was told. I picked up a copy of "Life on the Mississippi" at the Mark Twain Book Store and wandered down to the foot of Cardiff Hill, where Tom and Huck used to romp. There stands the statue of the two most famous boys in all literature, striding off arm-in-arm to some "adventure." We booked passage on the small sternwheeler Mark Twain, and got an hour's cruise on the Mississippi, including a closeup of what is believed to be Jackson Island, where Tom and Huck played pirates. Before bidding Hannibal farewell, we drove out to the Mark Twain Cave, about a mile from town. For $2.50 you can get a 45minute tour of the cave where Tom and Becky were lost for three days, and where Injun Joe met his end. The cave maintains an even, 52-degree temperature year-round. Its maze-like recesses branch out in all directions, and one can imagine the panic that must have seized Tom as his last candle flickered out.

What is the future of Hannibal and its like as the reading of books becomes an increasingly rare pastime in America? My prediction is that they will steadily fall off in tourism as the electronic generation

As for Mark Twain, he'll live on. If only in the hearts of those who share some small measure of his vision of childhood and American innocence.

No reason for dum-dum use

The hollow-nosed or "dum-dum" bullet is the preferred ammunition of many deer hunters because it is most likely to kill and kill quickly. For exactly the same reason, it is an appallingly inappropriate weapon for the police to use against human beings.

And yet there has been a quiet but steady trend by departments in Massachusetts and most other states to switch to dum-dums. A 1972 survey by the U.S. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration found that about 20 per cent of the nation's police used them then and the number has certainly grown since that time.

It is sometimes forgotten in this age of television violence that the police are not supposed to shoot to kill. They are customarily instructed to use weapons only to defend themselves or their fellow citizens. In fact, shooting to kill can be regarded as a form of summary execution and a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment because it deprives the victim of "life, liberty or property without due process of law."

Berry's World

One can understand why many police want to use dum-dums. There is no doubt that they have greater stopping power than conventional bullets. On impact, a dum-dum flattens and expands or "mushrooms," causing a large wound. A person who is hit in the arm is likely to lose the arm. Someone who is hit in the chest has comparatively little chance of

But their use should be banned just as the use of machine guns and poison gas are banned. The dumdum is simply too destructive to be useful. International agreements going back 76 years prohibit their use in warfare. The U.S. Army has not used them since 1907. Why should local police officers be armed with dum-dums?

The target of a policeman may be a vicious criminal or a deranged person or someone who is innocent of any crime. Policemen do make occasional mistakes, just as we all do, but a mistake involving the use of dum-dum ammunition is likely to be one that cannot be undone. (Boston Globe)

WASHINGTON - The shah of Iran has been singled out by the White House for special pampering. President Ford courted him over crepes and caviar during his recent White House visit. The shah repaid the hospitality by making arrogant demands for still higher oil prices.

Behind the scenes, some Administration officials are eager to challenge the shah, but the President has instructed them to keep their comments to themselves. In their private papers, however, they have demolished the shah's economic

✓ One of the shah's favorite: arguments is that oil prices have had little relative effect on the inflation rates in developed countries. On the contrary, statistics show that higher oil prices tend to drive up the prices of alternative fuels. And industries which use a lot of oil hike the price of their products to make up for the increased oil costs. When all these things are taken into account, the effect of soaring oil prices is

Time and again, the shah has declared that he has to hike his oil prices to make up for the price increases in imported goods from the Western nations. "A good deal of the cause of these increased prices," states one suppresed study, "are due to the repercussions of the (oil producers') own price actions."

The shah is fond of comparing increased food costs to the increased price of his oil. Agricultural costs, however, have gone up and down because of bad weather, poor crops and market conditions. "In the case of oil," states one paper, "prices were increased not in response to an excess of demand over supply but as a result of unilateral actions by the governments of the oil exporting nations.'

The shah claims that Western European import prices jumped 35 per cent in 1974. Administration economists cannot understand where the shah gets his figures. He is mixing up various indexes with percentages, they say. His economic arguments, therefore, are "confused."

"The shah's reference to the behavior of the foreign exchange reserves of the industrial nations during 1974 is also very misleading," states the study. What he doesn't take into account is the fact that most of these countries borrowed heavily to meet the staggering oil costs. "An appropriate analogy," suggests the study, Guard helicopter directed the customs boat "would be to a man who had started a year" to drop back while they tried to swamp the

with the patrol boat in close pursuit, its red lights flashing and siren wailing. The suspects responded with obscene gestures as they made a wide turn at top speed back toward Mexican waters.

The chase continued under an overcast sky through rain squalls. The water was so choppy that the operator's seat on the patrol boat was torn from its moorings, and the pilot was thrown on his back.

He had to be held in position to operate the boat by the other patrol officers, according to an official account. Whenever the patrol boat pulled close to the fleeing launch, the suspects tried to ram it. The officers called for aerial support,

Ruling in the case of Kenneth

Bruce J. Ennis, an attorney for the Mental Health Law Project of the American Civil Liberties Union, predicted that thousands - if not hundreds of thousands - of patients would be released by state and county mental hospitals.

A spokesman for St. Elizabeth's Hospital, a federal mental institution in Washington, suggested that the decision would make psychiatrists "feel neasy" but was unable to say whether any patients would be

Donaldson, 67, a former Syracuse, N.Y., resident, was committed to Florida State Hospital at Chattahoochee by his father in January 1957. Doctors diagnosed paranoid schizophrenia. In the hospital, he lived among convicted criminals and acutely deranged persons in a locked, 60-bed ward. He contended he was not mentally ill. After repeated efforts to secure his release, Donaldson sued the hospital superinten-dant, Dr. J. B. O'Connor for damages in federal court. Donaldson said he was not receiving any treatment. O'Connor said he was receiving 'milieu therapy." Justice Potter Stewart, speaking for the court in Thursay's opinion, called this "a euphemism for confinement.

The jury at the trial accepted Donaldson's version and awarded him $38,500 damages. The U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans upheld the verdict and O'Connor appealed to the Supreme Court. Although the high court agreed with Donaldson's constitutional arguments it sent the case back to lower courts for more proceedings on the issue of whether state doctors acted in good faith. Thus, Donaldson still hasn't collected his

Five injured in accident

WESTON, Mo. (AP) - Five persons were injured when a Continental Trailways bus carrying 24 passengers collided with an empty milk truck Thursday at a Platte County intersection.

The truck burst into flames from a ruptured gas line, and the bus passengers had to be evacuated through windows because the front of the bus was smashed by the collision, pinning the driver and preventing exit. Firemen extinguished the fire. The front of the bus was scorched, and the truck blackened.

The milk truck driver, Mrs. Florence N. Fee, 41, of Weston, was treated for a shoulder cut.

K.C. belts patched up California Angels, 7-1

ANAHEIM (AP) - You don't tinues to keep him sidelined California Angels these days. You need a hospital report.

'Well," said Manager Dick Williams, counting the bumps, bruises, fractures and pulled seven healthy players.

The Angels are also down in the dumps

They lost for the fourth straight time Thursday night when Williams' patchwork lineup fell to Marty Pattin and the Kansas City Royals, 7-1.

Now the battered Angels must host the division-leading Ryan and Don Kirkwood, Oakland A's for a three-game series which opens tonight.

Wednesday at Kansas City con-stomach need a program to identify the and the hard-throwing righthander is now listed only as possible for Sunday's final game of the series.

On the encouraging side, Williams expects Jerry Remy, hamstrings that abound on his Dave Chalk and Dave Collinsteam, "I guess we're down to all sidelined with leg injuriesto be back in the line-up tonight and he also expects Joe Lahoud to be in uniform. Lahoud has been gone for four days, attending his father's funeral.

Injuries have also slowed outfielders Lee Stanton and Mickey Rivers while shortstop Orlando Ramirez is unavailable because he is in Colombia attending his brother's funeral.

After the Royals whipped them for the sixth straight time, the Angels find themselves six games under .500 and 121/2 games off the pace. Roughly the same situation Williams walked into one year ago today when he replaced the beleaguered Bobby Winkles as the Angel manager.

George Brett, hitless in seven trips in Wednesday's 6-2, 12-inning Kansas City victory, rebounded with a vengeance Thursday night and rattled a double and three singles to pace KC's 11-hit attack.

'I was so embarrassed after Wednesday's game I just told myself they're not going to get me out tonight," Brett remark-

Pattin, who hurled a five-hit shutout at the Angels eight days ago, improved his record to 6-4, weathering nine singles.

The Angels abetted their own downfall by committing three errors, leading to four unearned runs as the loss was charged to Ed Figueroa, 6-4.

Mickey Rivers, who along with Meoli, had two singles for California, stole his 40th base of the year in the first inning to establish an Angel club record. The old mark was 39 by Sandy Alomar in 1971

Pattin fanned five and did not walk a batter and was helped out by Fred Patek, who delivered his first homer of the year, a two-run shot in the eighth inning, plus a single.

Busy man

Kansas City Royals' George Brett, who rapped out four of his team's 11 hits Thursday night, knocks the ball loose from the glove of California Angels' catcher Ellie Rodriguez's as he slides into home in the third inning.

Brett came home from third base on a sacrifice fly by Cookie Rojas. Kansas City swept the three-game series with Thursday's 7-1 victory:

Crash Wilson at Capital. Major League Standings

HOLTS SUMMIT, Mo. - Capital Speedway near here has added an attraction to the regular, weekly stock and sprint car racing program Saturday night.

Crash Wilson, who has been featured on television's Wide World of Sports, will ram his open convertible into a 3,000pound block of ice at a speed of 60 miles per hour.

Wilson remains in the front seat of his car during the act. Sprint and late model stock car racing gets underway at 8 p.m. at the track, north of Jefferson City.

Swindell enters race

John Hughes, promotional director of Hassler and Associates Racing Enterprises, Inc., announced Thursday afternoon that 19year-old Sammy Swindell has entered the Sprint Nation scheduled for July 12-13 on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

Swindell, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the top young race car drivers to hit the dirt circuit in years, according to many Swindell joins a growing list of drivers that is expected to number more than 80 for the $10,000 program on the Fairgrounds' half-mile dirt track.

Two days of racing with $5,000 each day, will find the feature winner at each session pick up $1,000.

Time trials, heat races, a consolation feature and the main event will be presented the night of July 12 and on the afternoon

Club sets benefit run

A group of Sedalia Smith-Cotton distance runners, The Jaynes Gang, is planning a 500-mile relay race Tuesday at Jennie Jaynes Stadium to help raise money for the Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center

Members of the team will be soliciting for pledges between now and the run. Pledges may be made one of three ways: A pledge per mile for the total distance of the relay, sponsoring a runner for the distance he runs, or sponsoring a runner outside the club for the distance he runs.

Persons wishing to make a pledge or donation may contact Steve Fisher (827-0139) or Jeff Mittelhauser (826-3748).

TV job for Stram

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Hank Stram, fired as head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs in December, will become a color commentator for 14 National Football League games on the CBS television network this fall.

The Kansas City Star reported today that Stram's appointment was confirmed by Robert Wussler, president of sport for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Stram, fired after the Chiefs' record fell to 5-9, reportedly signed a multi-year contract with the network. "I've always felt that if I ever got out of coaching, then one thing I wanted to be was a sports announcer because it would still be within the personality of football." Stram said.

He left the door open, however, to future coaching possibilities. "What will happen beyond this year you just don't know. I'm going to sit back and be very objective about what happens. If the right kind of coaching job comes up with the right kind of control and the right kind of opportunity to win. then I would certainly get back into coaching," Stram said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League was unable to reach a decision concerning player limits Thursday and will try again Friday when it resumes its annual meetings.

NFL directors have been haggling over the size of player rosters and had expected to make a decision Thursday, but now will have to extend the session another day. Last year teams were permitted to carry 47 players but some clubs would like to see that number reduced this season.

They also passed a rule permitting the showing of instant replay during games at the dis-cretion of the home team. Five stadiums - New Orleans, Kansas City, Dallas, Buffalo and Los Angeles — have facilities for instant replay

The directors also announced sites for their 1978 and 1979 meetings, Palm Springs, Calif., in 1978 and Tampa in 1979.

Discrimination hearings break for 10-day recess

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House education subcommittee will take action on new federal regulations forbidding sex discrimination at schools and colleges receiving federal funds as soon as Congress returns from its 10-day recess, the subcommittee's chairman says.

After completing six days of hearings on the regulations Thursday, Chairman James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said the subcommittee's counsel is researching the options open to the panel. These include approving or rejecting the regulations as a whole or voting seperately on sections of the regulations.

He said, however, he doubted that much support could be generated in the subcommittee for outright disapproval of the

"If someone is to propose wholesale disapproval, that would have less support than a proposal on specific sections of the regulations," he said. O'Hara also said if it is concluded that the House post-secondary education subcommittee legally can separate the regulations, as opposed to taking them as an entity, three or tour resolutions could be proposed.

As examples, he said, one could be whether the Department of Health, Education and Welfare went beyond the scope of the law in requiring the schools to take affirmative action in implementing the rules. Others could be whether HEW went beyond the intent of Congress in setting guidelines for employment and whether athletics come under the jurisdiction of the law, he said. The new regulations, approved by President Ford May 27, go into effect July 21 unless Congress rejects them. No

O'Hara also said proponents of the regulations, in an effort to see the regulations implemented, might try to delay committee action past the July 21 deadline, thus setting them in motion before Congress can act on them.

Caspar W. Weinberger, outgoing HEW secretary, reiterated Thursday that the regulations implementing Title IX of the 1972 Omnibus Education Act will not require equal expenditures for male and female

Bench's vote total mounts

NEW YORK (AP) - Johnny Bench of Cincinnati has become the first player in history to draw more than 1 million National League All-Star ballots for the sixth consecutive year, the baseball commissioner's office announced Friday.

With 10 days remaining in the voting, the Reds catcher is also the individual voting leader in the tabulations with 1,660,229 votes. All the leaders retained their positions from the initial standings two weeks ago, though some are being threatened as the July 6th deadline draws near. Cincinnati's Joe Morgan has a comfortable lead for the second base spot with 1,450,660 votes to 414,480 for Rennie Stennett, while Red's shortstop Dave Concepcion polled 1,259,681 ballots for a margin of 479,066 over Larry Bowa of Philadelphia. Ron Cey of Los Angeles continues to be the fans' favorite third baseman, gathering 992,892 votes to outdistance Joe Torre of New York, with 459,375. Pete Rose of Cincinnati leads the outfield race with 1,200,815 votes and Del Unser has tightened his grip on second place with 706,657.

However, Rusty Staub's third-place ranking with 639,865 was whittled by base-stealing king Lou Brock of St. Louis. Brock has attracted 609,970 votes and jumped from sixth to fourth place, just 29,895 behind Staub. Los Angeles' Jim Wynn is also a strong contender with 599,643, while Reggie Smith of St. Louis trails with 582,290.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, winner of the 1974 Commissioner's Trophy as the All-Star Game's Most Valuable Player, improved his first base advantage slightly over Cincinnati's Tony Perez, drawing 928,308 votes to 892,873 for the

Substitutes can collect jobless pay

WASHINGTON (AP) Teachers who worked as substitutes during the school year could still be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits although a special law excludes them from collecting jobless benefits during the summer.

An official with the Labor Department's Manpower Administration said Thursday that substitutes without contracts for the fall term could qualify, provided they met general state requirements for jobless benefits. Most substitutes do not work under contract.

The states generally require an individual to have worked 18 to 20 weeks to be eligible for compensation.

Fulltime teachers who were laid off from their jobs or who were not under contract for the fall term also would be eligible. Elementary and high school teachers, administrators and researchers became eligible for jobless benefits last December when Congress extended unemployment assistance program to roughly some 12 million state and local government employes, household workers and farm workers whose jobs had not previously been covered by such laws.

This opened the possibility that teachers could collect jobless benefits between academic terms. However, that loophole was closed June 13 when President Ford signed an appropriations bill containing a provision denying such benefits during the period between school terms if teachers have contracts for both academic terms.

The bill was enacted after several states indicated they could find no provision in their own laws by which they could deny benefits during the summer months.

A spokesman for the National Education Association said teachers are eligible for benefits where school boards have held off signing new contracts for the fall term because of budget problems or where teachers were laid off. "We've got quite a few eople in those categories," an NEA spokesman said. "If they don't have a contract, then they are eligible for benefits."

Please tell me where I can write David Gerber, who has his own production company. Thomas Greer, Dunedin, Gerber is an executive at Columbia Pictures Television. Write him there, The Burbank Studios, Burbank, Calif. 91505.

"The money was good. It's nice to work steadily and, much of a market for women in TV," she said. "Until people like Angie Dickinson and Jessica Walter came along in their own series most women in TV were relegated to Gail Fisher-type service roles. The opportunities in daytime TV were much better '

Two factors convinced, Susan it was time to move on. One was the excellent reaction to her role as Robert Wagner's lady friend in "The Towering Inferno," for which she won a Golden Globe Award. Second. Why had she remained with and most important, was the fact that "Days of Our Lives" had joined the recent trend toward converting soaps from a half to a full hour in length.

"I think my decision to leave would have come anyway," she said, "even though I didn't realize it. I'd probably have stayed with the show until September if it hadn't been expanded, but no longer. However, when I found myself having to report to the studio at 6 a.m. and still being there at 6 p.m., that did

As of now, the series hasn't shut the door against her possible return. Susan's character has been written out by having her sent off to visit her mother in Chicago.

There are probably a few people at NBC who'd like me to do nothing for a few months," said Susan. "They think if I'm not an immediate success elsewhere I'll come back. But I never will. I'm not saying I won't do another soap opera. Maybe in four or five years. But not this one. You can only remain one one level for just so long

"There are things to be said for doing the same role day after day. You can take chances and stretch yourself as an actress. But doing a soap is like a velvet trap. It lulls you. You lose that sense of urgency, the hustle. Your character grows and develops and learns things. But there are long stretches when your character isn't in focus, when you talk about things but don't do them. Part of the trap is that it's so easy to get stale.

According to Susan, she's gotten lots of offers since Towering Inferno" and has about five "live" projects pending. Two will be TV

Beauty back in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — At long last, we may have a beautiful girl star again. Hollywood has been pretty short of beauty lately but here comes Susan Blakely. She's graced the casts of "The Towering Inferno," "Report to the Commissioner" and the upcoming "Big Al." And she's gorgeous.

Things are going so well for Susan that she's turning down TV offers because she wants to be strictly a moving picture

"Movie producers," she says, "have the feeling that people who do TV are those who can't make it in movies.'

Susan, tall, blonde and model-like, is an Army brat, born in Germany. She lived all over - Germany, Korea, Texas, other places. When she was 18, her father was stationed at Fort Bliss in Texas. A young German cadet, who had been a photographer, told her she could make it as a model in

Susan Blakely

Germany. So she went to Germany.

"I was only 18," she says, and my parents freaked out So I came back but I didn't stay. I went to New York, with $100 and the name of a model agency. I was lucky. When I got there the innocent blonde look was in - and I sure was innocent.'

She became a top model, then switched to acting. She met her husband in New York. He's Todd Merer, a criminal lawyer who became a boutique owner and now is writing.

"I'll never forget the first time I took him to Texas to meet my folks," she says. They had always wanted me to marry a West Pointer. And we march off the plane - me and this guy with long red hair and a long red beard and he's Jewish, too.'

She says she almost always dated Jewish boys in New York, because she says they have soul. She's got some, too.

scout reports

Victor Borge says he learned to play at his mother's knee. "We didn't have a piano," he says.

It would appear that Robert Stack, who spent so many unblinking years as star of The Untouchables, will never again take a series.

When he was filming the NBC-TV movie, "The Strange and Deadly Occurrence," he said, "A television series is the cruelest of all professions for a family man. It takes no heed of wife, children, home or golf.

When Bob Hope won the Favorite Male Entertainer People's Choice Award he quipped that the award was so beautiful, "I may get another one, have my ears pierced and wear them as earrings.

The next day, the president of a company engaged in "ear piercing instruments and prepackaged sterile studs" called Hope's office to offer his company's services. "We'll do it gladly - no job is too big for us," he said.

Max Morath says with inflation so rampant there's a new definition of petty cash. "It's everyone's salary.

Television movies have good future

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Television was a movie addict's paradise this past season

Between the three networks there was a film on in prime time every night sometimes two films.

This is about to change. All movie nights next fall -ABC from four to two, NBC from three to two. CBS from two to one

The cutback covers movies made for television and films the networks purchased after they made three are cutting back on the rounds of the nation's theaters.

> In the case of the purchased films, the reduction isn't surprising.

There aren't that many good pictures to begin with." says Fred Silverman, CBS programming chief. "And ing) problems. The prices are out of sight ... We just don't feel that the number and quality of movies available warrants an extra two

The cutback in the TV movie is a little harder to understand.

The reduction is a big one - from roughly 85 this season to 45 or 50 next season, not including movies made solely as series pilots.

And for the first time in many years, none of the networks is giving its TV films special "World Premiere" or "Movie of the Week" time slots. They will be interspersed with the purchased Hollywood movies Executives at ABC and NBC, where most of the television films are made. say these changes reflect a switch in emphasis, not in commitment to the form.

They say they want more quality than quantity and they are forsaking the 90question. The indefatigable minute movie in favor of the two-hour format

At ABC, movie production boss Brandon Stoddard says the financial commitment for 1975-76 will be the same for 25 two-hour movies about $18.7 million - as it was for 44 112 hour films this season.

The two-hour format also seems dictated by the networks' self-imposed "family hour" next fall.

Most TV movies are for we have program (censor- adults and therefore not acceptable for the 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. family hour period. With this restriction, it made sense to many TV executives to devote the 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. block to one film rather than run a half-hour show at 9 p.m. or 10:30 p.m.

> The difference is money. pure and simple. The networks pay from $450,000 to $500,000 for a 90-minute movie. They pay $750,000 for a two-hour film.

> So for filming an extra 30 minutes - 26 when you subtract commercial time - a producer has up to $300,000 more to lavish on stars, sets. the script and all the little details that differentiate a movie from a television series.
